

Manyuon, Daniel Athior Atem, CDF is a Social Finance and development professional who is currently serving as a Regional Business Development Manager for Canadian Emirate Western Engineering Company (UAE based Oil and Gas services company) a position that covers South Sudan, Sudan, Kenya, Uganda and Abu Dhabi-UAE. Mr. Atem also served as a policy consultant at the South Sudan Ministry of Labour, where he conducted desk and primary market survey for employment, a role in which he undertook a program with activities related to national employment status and mapping out required skills to help inform employment policy. Mr. Atem helped by drafting TOR for policy review of the employment regulation on South Sudan. He championed creation of vocational training by drafting policy document that help young people have opportunities for vocational training programs. He helped in drafting a document on the impact of COVID-19 pandemic on Labour market and create policies that attract government possible intervention for Ministry of Labour, and Office of Vice President for services cluster. Mr. Atem also did a market analysis of higher education financing landscape in Uganda creating interest for lending for education in Africa partnership (LEAP-Volta Capital) – a London-based educational investment company with operations offices in Nairobi. Mr. Atem also worked in South Sudan for Royal Express Bank PLC as Business Development & Operation Manager. He worked for Anob Finance & Management Consultancy in Uganda as Associate Finance Officer.

Mr. Atem has won several prestigious scholarships and awards for instance Mandela Institute for Development Studies (MINDS Africa) scholarship; Turkey Government Scholarship and emerged as the first World Bank Blog4Dev2019 Winner for South Sudan.

Mr. Atem has published journal and opinion articles such as an Examination of the drivers of uptake of microcredit services by customers; the case of South Sudan Microfinance; Promote an enabling environment for youth employment and entrepreneurship in the digital economy; Developmental challenges and opportunities in Africa. His research areas include development finance, Microfinance, social investment, oil and gas policy, public policy and economic development.

Mr. Atem holds an MSc in Development Finance from Strathmore University, Kenya; an MSc in Accounting & Finance from Kocaeli University, Turkey; BSc in Business Administration (accounting) with honors from St. Lawrence University, Uganda. Mr. Atem is a member of Chartered Development Finance (CIDEF), and A member of the World Bank Youth Transforming Africa(W-YTA).